

Buchheit supports local community fairs

Throughout the years Buchheit has strived to support local communities. Each year Buchheit Team Members attend the local community fairs, donate feed for the animals and participate in the livestock auction.

“It is important that we continue to give back to our communities” says Tim Buchheit.

“And one way we do so is by supporting the local community fair livestock auctions.”

Buchheit has purchased over 30 animals from the local community fairs this year along with donating feed for the animals and providing educational materials.

A steer bought from Kaylee Richardet, who showed for the first time this season, is pictured right with Kenny Buchheit.

Richardet received best in show at the East Perry County Fair and raised her steer on Buchheit Show Ring Maxx Cattle Feed.

Buchheit has been serving the community since 1934. Currently Buchheit operates a Feedmill and Agriculture facility in Biehle along with eight retail stores – Herculaneum, House Springs, Perryville and Jackson in Missouri and Jacksonville, Greenville, Centralia and Sparta in Illinois. Buchheit features merchandise for the home, garden, and farm that is geared toward exploring the possibilities of a simpler life.
